

Autism Research Database

Subscription to Titles in Autism by E-mail / ARD CD-ROM - 2002

The Autism Research Database is used by the Information Centre of the National Autistic Society (UK) to answer the 20,000 enquiries it receives every year from parents, professionals and people with autistic spectrum disorders. It includes references to books, reports, journal articles from across the world on autism and related subjects and covers forthcoming conferences, courses, research in progress and professionals working in the field and also lists schools and adult centres in the UK. The whole database is available as a read-only version in CD-ROM and is updated twice a year.

A selected list of new additions to the Database is available as an e-mail version, Titles in Autism, and is available on a separate subscription, which you can subscribed to for 2002.
